VODAFONE UK PROVIDES MOBILE SHOPPING TO LIVE! CUSTOMERS

Vodafone UK today launches Vodafone live! Shopping. The mobile store where customers can purchase goods securely over their phones using their credit or debit cards.

To launch the service, Vodafone UK has partnered with a number of top retailers including HMV, Thorntons, Oddbins, gadgetshop and Firebox. A number of other well known retailers will be joining Vodafone live! Shopping in the near future.

An icon on the live! menu takes customers through to a virtual shopping centre with a wide range of recognised retailers and products where they can place orders via their Vodafone handset. Once payment has been accepted, the goods are dispatched immediately to the registered delivery address.

Each retailer will provide an overview of available items, illustrated with a full-colour picture and accompanied by a more detailed description to supply as much information as possible, all under the merchant branding to enhance the feeling of a physical shopping experience. In addition, live! customers will also be able to view the regularly updated special offers from each high street retailer.

Lance Batchelor, Marketing Director, Vodafone UK said, We are certain that Shopping will be a popular addition to Vodafone live! This development once again demonstrates Vodafone's leadership in m-commerce. Fundamentally, we are offering our customers the ability to shop at their favourite stores whenever and wherever they want. It's all about being quick, simple and delivering what people want.

VODAFONE EXTENDS ITS MOBILE COMMUNITY TO LITHUANIA

Vodafone today announces that it has signed a Partner Network Agreement with Bite GSM (Bite) in Lithuania. Bite is a wholly-owned subsidiary of TDC Mobile International and is the company's second subsidiary to join the Vodafone Mobile Community following the agreement signed with TDC Mobil A/S (TDC Mobil), Denmark's leading mobile operator, in December 2001.

Peter Bamford, Chief Marketing Officer, Vodafone said:

VODAFONE AND CAUDWELL HOLDINGS AGREE ACQUISITION OF SINGLEPOINT

Vodafone Group Plc (Vodafone Group) and Caudwell Holdings Limited (Caudwell Holdings) jointly announce that they have reached agreement for Vodafone UK Limited (Vodafone UK), a wholly owned subsidiary of Vodafone Group, to acquire the entire share capital of Singlepoint (4U) Limited (Singlepoint), a wholly owned subsidiary within the Caudwell Group for a total cash consideration of £405m which will be paid from Vodafone Group s existing resources.

Singlepoint, founded in 1993 by John and Brian Caudwell, is the largest and consistently fastest growing independent service provider in the UK. It employs more than 1,900 staff and currently manages 1.9 million contract customers, of which 1.5 million are Vodafone customers, representing 27% of Vodafone s contract customer base in the UK.

The transaction is subject to EU merger clearance, such approval being expected during September this year.

Gavin Darby, CEO of Vodafone UK, commented:

We are delighted to reach this agreement with the Caudwell Group. We have had a strong commercial relationship with John Caudwell for many years. Together with the proposed acquisition of Project Telecom, this transaction will increase the direct access to our contract customer base in the UK to 90%. This will give us greater flexibility to develop customer usage of both voice and data services and to offer a consistency of service and products to an even larger section of our customer base .

John Caudwell, Chief Executive of Caudwell, commented:

The acquisition of Singlepoint by Vodafone UK will prove to be an extremely positive move for the company, its customers and employees. The growth, development and establishment of Singlepoint as a mainstay of airtime service provision in an extremely challenging market is something of which I am very proud. But Singlepoint s management and staff can also congratulate themselves on the creation of a business which now sets standards on both commercial and customer service fronts.

VODAFONE UK LAUNCHES VSPAM INITIATIVE TO TACKLE UNSOLICITED TEXT MESSAGES

Vodafone UK is taking steps to control the amount of unsolicited text messages its customers receive. It is the first operator to launch a trial initiative designed to help reduce these texts.

When an unsolicited text message is received the customer can forward it, free of charge, directly to 87726 or VSPAM on their mobile keypad. Vodafone will then receive a consolidated report of all the unsolicited text messages reported by its customers. Currently when customers report an unsolicited text message to Vodafone they are advised to contact the Independent Committee for the Supervision of Standards of Telephone Information Services (ICSTIS). With this new initiative it means that they will no longer have to do this and can simply forward the message to VSPAM to allow automated reporting.

The consolidated VSPAM report is also sent to ICSTIS on a daily basis so that it can take regulatory action against parties running such services. ICSTIS has prosecuted several service providers so far and it intends to name and shame the operators who currently support the service providers running these premium rate services.

Jeremy Flynn, Head of Commercial Partnerships, Vodafone UK said: We launched VSPAM for our employees a month ago and it has proved to be an extremely valuable tool in helping to track down people who send unsolicited text messages. We recognise that this is an issue for our customers which we want to help resolve.

Recent research into consumer awareness, experience and perception of premium rate SMS, further supports the launch of VSPAM. The findings revealed the extent of public annoyance caused by unsolicited text messages promoting premium rate numbers. 63% of all respondents had received an unsolicited text message inviting them to reply using a premium rate number and 85% of respondents believed that there should be controls to restrict unsolicited messages, particularly those targeting children. This is reinforced by the soaring numbers of public complaints about such messages received by ICSTIS - 3,500 in the first six months of 2003 alone.

ICSTIS Deputy Director Paul Whiteing said: Mobile technology offers endless new and exciting opportunities, but consumers need to understand how to use and control it effectively in order to maximise trust and take-up. There are problems caused by unsolicited text messages and we very much welcome Vodafone's VSPAM initiative. We will continue to work with all mobile operators to identify ways to stamp out this practice so that consumers can have confidence when using premium rate services on their mobiles.

On a more positive note, the research also demonstrates the popular appeal that legitimate premium rate SMS services has with customers. The research showed an encouraging level of public awareness and confidence in premium rate SMS services that deliver text and other content to mobile handsets. Nearly 50% of respondents had used a premium rate SMS at least once, with ringtone downloads being the most popular service. Convenience and usefulness were cited as the major reasons for using services and only 11% of respondents had encountered any problems.

FERGIE S ON THE PHONE FOR MANCHESTER UNITED FANS

Have you ever wondered exactly what Sir Alex Ferguson says in his pre match media briefings? Well, Manchester United fans can now hear their manager's own words directly via their mobile phones, thanks to Manchester United's new Fergie on the Fone service

Part of the suite of MU Mobile services, connected from Vodafone, the club's principal sponsor, Fergie on the Fone sports up to three minutes of highlights from Sir Alex Ferguson's pre-match briefings. No longer will fans have to wait until the next day for the news about who is playing, who's injured, whether Ruud will operate as a lone striker and who could be the opposition's danger man.

To hear Sir Alex's thoughts, fans simply need to call 0870 452 6272. Those who dial in from their mobile phone are also able to register to receive a text message telling them when the service is live and reminding them to dial the national rate number to hear Sir Alex. Those who don't register can still call but will not have the advantage of being notified when the latest media briefing highlights are available.

A special introductory rate applies to the service from launch until the end of September, which will be the standard call rate from the network the fans dial in from. After that, the cost will be the standard rate plus £1 for the text message.

Anybody who uses the service before the end of September will automatically be entered into a draw to win the use of their very own private box for a Manchester United game at Old Trafford - The Theatre of Dreams.

For those Reds who want to know more than Sir Alex Ferguson's pre-match thoughts, there's Man Utd on the Fone. By dialing 17442 from their Vodafone mobile phone or 08717 100 007 from other network mobiles, fans can register for text updates on half-time scores, goals, red cards, yellow cards, penalties and team news. In addition, customers who favour an official ringtone or logo for their mobile can check out the selection at www.manutd.com/munow <<http://www.manutd.com/munow>> where there are also further details about Fergie on the Fone.
