Converium Holding Ltd., Zug

Zug, Switzerland - 1 February 2007 - Converium estimates its damages for winter storm Kyrill at around EUR 25-35 million

Based on an assumed industry loss of roughly EUR 5-7 billion, Converium estimates its own loss from winter storm Kyrill at around EUR 25-35 million (gross claim estimate). Kyrill made landfall with hurricane-force winds in Europe on 18 January 2007. Its unusually large footprint created significant damage in eight countries.

Paolo De Martin, CFO of Converium: "Kyrill serves as a reminder that winter storms are a major natural peril in Europe, demonstrating the core role of reinsurance in risk mitigation. Converium's losses from the storm reflect our strong market position in Continental Europe and are in line with our projections for a European storm loss which we would expect to occur every five to eight years. The large geographical scale of the event and the extremely high number of small losses mean there is still a degree of uncertainty." As far as Converium is concerned, Windstorm Kyrill most severely affected the property and motor lines of business in Germany and Austria. The U.K., France, Belgium, the Netherlands and several other Northern and Central European countries experienced smaller insured losses.

Converium will report on its year-end renewals performance on 15 February 2007.

Converium has made it a policy not to provide any quarterly or annual earnings guidance and it will not update any past outlooks for full-year earnings. It will, however, continue to provide investors with perspectives on its value drivers, certain financial guidance for the full year, its strategic initiatives and those factors critical to understanding its business and operating environment.
