Enclosures: JNL buys Life of Georgia

For Immediate Release: Thursday 18 November 2004

JACKSON NATIONAL LIFE GROWS LIFE BUSINESS WITH PURCHASE OF LIFE OF GEORGIA FROM ING FOR GBP137 MILLION

Jackson National Life Insurance Company ("JNL"), an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of Prudential plc, has entered into an agreement to buy Life Insurance Company of Georgia from ING Groep, NV. JNL will pay GBP137 million in cash for the business.

This purchase adds scale to JNL's operating platform and expands its agency distribution. The additional 1.6 million life policies it will gain as a result of the transaction will double the total number of life insurance and annuity policies in force. By making use of excess capacity within its life administration platform to service this new book of business, JNL expects to lower the unit cost on its life business significantly.

Last year, JNL updated its life portfolio with several new products and improved its distribution network. The purchase of Life of Georgia will help JNL grow its life business more quickly and gain additional distribution. The company intends to use Life of Georgia's existing agent base and increase its penetration into the southeastern United States.

"This is exactly the sort of deal we have been targeting. It will improve JNL's financial efficiency while also enhancing distribution, thereby accelerating our organic growth strategy" said Clark Manning, CEO of Jackson National Life. "This is a great opportunity to demonstrate the benefits of Jackson's low-cost, flexible and scalable IT and administration infrastructure. As we discussed at the time of our Interim Results, increasing the scale of our life business will further diversify our earnings by increasing the percentage of income we receive from underwriting activities in relation to our current spread-based and fee-based businesses."

The purchase will be fully funded from JNL's internal resources and maintains JNL's capital base. It is not expected to affect the Group's capital position as previously reported. It is subject to regulatory approval and is expected to complete in the first quarter of 2005. This follows the completion of the sale of Jackson Federal Bank for GBP166 million, which was announced on 28 October 2004.
