SECTION 8 OTHER EVENTS*Item 8.01 Other Events

On September 27, 1996, Gilead Sciences, Inc., a Delaware corporation ( "Gilead" ), entered into a Development and License Agreement (the "1996 Agreement" ) with F. Hoffmann-La Roche Ltd, a Swiss corporation ( "Roche Ltd" ), and Hoffmann-La Roche Inc., a New Jersey corporation ( "Roche US" ) and together with Roche Ltd, ( "Roche" ), to develop and commercialize therapies to treat and prevent viral influenza. Tamiflu® (oseltamivir phosphate), an antiviral pill for the treatment and prevention of influenza, was co-developed by Gilead and Roche. Under the 1996 Agreement, Roche has the exclusive right to manufacture and sell Tamiflu worldwide, subject to its obligation to pay Gilead a percentage of the net revenues that Roche generates from Tamiflu sales, subject to reduction for certain defined manufacturing costs. On June 23, 2005, Gilead delivered a notice of termination to Roche for material breach of the 1996 Agreement. If, and when, Gilead's notice of termination becomes effective, all licenses granted to Roche under the 1996 Agreement would terminate and revert to Gilead. The 1996 Agreement was filed as Exhibit 10.42 to the Report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ended September 30, 1996. A copy of the press release announcing the notice of termination is attached as Exhibit 99.1 to this report and a copy of the notice of termination that was delivered to Roche on June 23, 2005 is attached as Exhibit 99.2 to this report.
