About the Damage to the Chinese Manufacturing Sites of the Panasonic Group

Osaka, Japan, September 21, 2012 The damage to the Panasonic Corporation ([NYSE:PC/TSE:6752] Panasonic) group manufacturing sites caused by the anti-Japan demonstrators in China is as detailed below.

1. Injury to personnel

There were no injuries to personnel.

- 2. Damage to buildings and equipment, and negative impact on production
- (1) Industrial Devices Company, Qingdao factory (manufacturing electronic components such as switches)
 There was damage to the building, equipment, etc. With safety as a priority, preparations to restart the operations at the factory are underway, but the restarting date is uncertain.
- (2) Industrial Devices Company, Suzhou factory (manufacturing printed-circuit board materials and printed-circuit boards)

 Despite some damage to the building, equipment, etc., there was no major damage to production equipment. With safety as a priority, operations at the factory restarted from September 17.
- (3) Systems & Communications Company, Zhuhai factory (manufacturing fixed-line phone)

 The factory has stopped operation and employees have stayed at home, since approximately 10 Chinese employees made a protest. The factory is preparing to restart the operations, after ensuring safety.
- 3. Forecast of effect by the damage to our business performances

Forecast of effect by the damage is uncertain at the moment. An announcement will be made promptly if a significant impact on Panasonic s consolidated financial outlook for fiscal 2013 is foreseen.
