* An explanation of the significance of ratings may be obtained from the rating agencies. Generally, rating agencies base their ratings on such material and information, and such of their own investigations, studies and assumptions, as they deem appropriate. The anticipated ratings of the notes should be evaluated independently from similar ratings of other securities. A credit rating of a security is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold securities and may be subject to review, revision, suspension, reduction or withdrawal at any time by the assigning rating agency. Following the announcement of the acquisition by the Guarantor of United Guaranty Corporation and AIG United Guaranty (Asia) Limited (the “UGC Acquisition”), Moody’s Investors Service placed the Guarantor’s ratings on review for downgrade and indicated that, following the closing of the UGC Acquisition, the Guarantor’s senior unsecured debt rating could be lowered by one notch to “Baa1”; Standard & Poor’s Financial Services affirmed the Guarantor’s “A-” counterparty credit rating and revised its outlook to negative from stable; and Fitch Ratings placed the Guarantor’s long-term issuer credit ratings and senior unsecured debt rating on negative watch and indicated that, following the closing of the UGC Acquisition, they could be lowered by up to two notches to “BBB+” and “BBB”, respectively. See “Risk Factors—Risks Relating to the Notes—Our credit ratings, including ratings on our long-term debt including the notes, may be downgraded as a result of the UGC Acquisition or otherwise” (as updated by the foregoing information) in the preliminary prospectus supplement.
