SHAREHOLDER FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS – SOUTHERN COMPANY ANNOUNCEMENT

On August 24, 2015, Southern Company announced its intent to acquire AGL Resources in a $12 billion transaction, creating one of the nation's leading U.S. electric and gas utilities. Following are frequently asked investor questions.

· Press release

· AGL Resources Shareholder Benefits

1. Following the close of the transaction, will I have the option to convert my AGL Resources (GAS) stock to Southern Company (SO) stock? Or do I have to take the cash payout?

The transaction is an all cash transaction. There is no option to convert GAS stock to SO stock. All GAS shareholders will receive $66 per share shortly following the close of the transaction (which is expected in the second half of 2016). Conversion to Southern Company shares is not an option with this transaction.

2. Will there be a proxy sent out for me to declare how many shares I want to sell at the $66 price? Do I have to sell all?

All GAS shares will be paid out at the $66 per share price.

3. Are we no longer shareholders at the close of the transaction?

That is correct. You will no longer be a shareholder of AGL Resources once the transaction closes.

4. Will I be taxed on the gain from the stock sale in the year the transaction closes?

Yes, this is a taxable transaction. If you have questions about your specific circumstances or about tax planning, we recommend that you consult with a tax advisor.

5. I have physical stock certificates for GAS stock. What is the process for redeeming them for cash upon close?

Any certificated holders of GAS stock will receive a letter of transmittal from the paying agent selected by Southern Company shortly after the close of the transaction with instructions for surrender of the certificate.

6. How will I receive my stock payout following the close of the transaction?

When the transaction is nearing close, you will receive communications from Southern Company's paying agent, or from any entity through which you hold your GAS shares (e.g., a broker). Within two days of the close of the transaction, a letter of transmittal will be sent to all shareholders regarding the payment for shares. If you hold your shares in a brokerage account or via "book entry" (i.e., you do not have an actual certificate), the payment for shares will be automatic. If you hold a certificate(s) for your shares, you will receive a letter with instructions for how to redeem your certificate(s).

7. Until the Southern Company transaction closes, can I still purchase stock directly from AGL Resources?

Yes, ResourcesDirect, the company's direct stock purchase and dividend reinvestment plan, offers a convenient way to purchase shares of AGL Resources stock, without having to pay brokerage commissions on the purchase. For more details, including a prospectus, click on the "Shareholder Services" section of the web site or call 1-800-468-9716 or 1-651-450-4064, and the materials will be mailed to you at no charge.
