Community Relief and Restoration Fund Related to Explosion and Fires in San Bruno, California

On September 12, 2010, the Boards of Directors of Pacific Gas and Electric Company (Utility) and its parent holding company, PG&E Corporation, approved the establishment of a relief fund of up to $100 million to assist eligible residents and the community of San Bruno, California that have been affected by the September 9, 2010 rupture of a 30-inch natural gas transmission pipeline owned and operated by the Utility. The relief fund will be used to cover various costs relating to the San Bruno event, including costs to (1) cover affected residents' expenses and property damage that are not covered by other insurance (or for which insurance proceeds have not yet been made available), (2) help restore the community by rebuilding or replacing public property damaged or destroyed in the accident, such as parks, trees, and schools, and (3) pay for certain costs incurred by emergency responders and government services to respond to the fire. The relief fund is not intended to cover any claims for personal injury or wrongful death, which would be addressed outside of the relief fund.

The Utility maintains liability insurance for damages in the approximate amount of $992 million in excess of a $10 million deductible. The Utility believes that most of the costs relating to the San Bruno event will be covered by this insurance, although there can be no assurance as to the ultimate amount that will be recovered.

As calculated in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP), it is expected that the estimated costs associated with the San Bruno event, including costs associated with the relief fund, will negatively affect PG&E Corporation's consolidated income available for common shareholders for the three and nine months ending September 30, 2010 and for the year ending December 31, 2010. When calculating PG&E Corporation's "earnings from operations," which is not calculated in accordance with GAAP, it is expected that the estimated costs associated with the event will be excluded as an "item impacting comparability" due to the extraordinary circumstances.

For more information, the Utility's press release issued on September 13, 2010 is attached as an Exhibit to this report.
