Unit of Smith & Nephew one of five companies to settle with U. S. Attorney in New Jersey

27 September 2007

Smith & Nephew plc (LSE: SN, NYSE: SNN), the global medical technology business, announced today that its Orthopaedic Reconstruction business unit, an operating division of its U.S. subsidiary, Smith & Nephew, Inc., has reached a civil settlement agreement with the U.S. Attorney for the District of New Jersey (USDOJ) following an industry wide investigation. The orthopaedic reconstruction unit of Smith & Nephew and the four other major U.S. orthopaedic companies received subpoenas from the USDOJ in March 2005 requesting copies of all consulting contracts with surgeons. Since that time the USDOJ has conducted an industry wide investigation into the vital relationships between surgeons and the orthopaedic implant industry.

Smith & Nephew has co-operated fully with the USDOJ throughout the investigation and has now reached an agreement with the USDOJ to pay $28,929,840 in civil restitution. Smith & Nephew and the four other companies have also entered into similar agreements which will be in force for 18 months. As part of each agreement a separate external monitor will be appointed to oversee contracts between each company and its consulting surgeons. The agreement between Smith & Nephew and the USDOJ is entirely voluntary and Smith & Nephew has neither admitted guilt nor agreed to allegations as part of this settlement.

David J. Illingworth, Chief Executive of Smith & Nephew plc, commenting on the settlement said "We have worked closely with the U. S. Department of Justice to refine compliance procedures which apply across the industry and enable the best outcome for the patient, the surgeon, the hospital, private payers and Medicare.

We are satisfied that the industry wide compliance program made uniform by this settlement will ensure continued, appropriate use of consultants, and we
