Item 12. Results of Operations and Financial Condition.

On August 4, 2004, we issued a press release setting forth our earnings for the quarterly period ended June 30, 2004. A copy of the press release is attached as Exhibit 99.1 to this Form 8-K

In our press release, and in our investor presentation materials published on our corporate website in conjunction with the release of earnings, we use a number of non-GAAP measures. We discuss each of these non-GAAP measures below. Included in our discussion is a statement disclosing the reasons why our management believes that these measures provide useful information to investors regarding our financial condition, results of operations, cash flows, as applicable, and, to the extent material, disclosing the additional purposes for which these measures are used.

As defined in Regulation G, Conditions for Use of Non-GAAP Financial Measures, a non-GAAP financial measure is a numerical measure of a company's historical or future performance, financial position or cash flow that excludes (includes) amounts or adjustments that are included (excluded) in the most directly comparable measure calculated in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP).

Adjusted Gross Margin. We use the non-GAAP financial measure adjusted gross margin to track and analyze the results of operations of our two business segments, retail energy and wholesale energy. We also use this measure in communications with investors, analysts, rating agencies, banks and other parties. As used in our press release and related investor presentation material for the first quarter ended June 30, 2004, adjusted gross margin excludes the following items:

Gains Recorded in Prior Periods that Were Realized/Collected In Current Period (EITF No. 02-03). We have included income recorded by us prior to 2003 under certain contracts accounted for under the mark-to-market method of accounting with respect to deliveries of electricity in the current period. Since we currently apply the accrual method of accounting to these types of contracts, we believe that including this income in the delivery period in which it is realized/collected for such contracts provides a more meaningful representation of our quarterly earnings performance in that including this income is consistent with our current accounting treatment for these types of energy sale contracts. For additional information, see Note to 2(d) to the financial statements included in our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2003.

Net Reduction of California-Related Reserves. We have excluded these reserves and the impact of changes in these reserves from quarter to quarter because of the unique and non-recurring nature of the transactions, market conditions and regulatory events that underlie the reserves. The reserves relate to certain energy sales from October 2000 through June 2001. Excluding this item is useful to investors, analysts and others because it provides a fairer representation of our results of operations on an ongoing basis. For additional information, see Note 15(b) to the consolidated financial statement in our Annual Report of Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2003.

Non-Trading Unrealized Energy Derivative Gains/Losses. We enter into transactions to hedge the economics of our business operations by (i) buying power supply for our retail business and (ii) selling generation output and buying fuel for our wholesale business. These activities are subject to complex accounting rules and can result in different accounting treatments (mark-to-market accounting versus accrual method). Since the application of mark-to-market accounting has the effect of pulling forward into current periods non-cash gains/losses relating to future delivery periods, analysis of results of operations from one period to another can be difficult. Accordingly, we believe that excluding these unrealized gains/losses is useful to investors, analysts and others in facilitating operations from one period to another and provides a more meaningful representation of our economic performance in the reporting period.

their analysis of our results of

Adjusted Income (Loss) from Continuing Operations. We use the non-GAAP financial measure adjusted income (loss) from continuing operations to track and analyze our financial condition and results of operations on a consolidated basis. We also use this measure in communications with investors, analysts, rating agencies, banks and other parties. As used in our press release and related investor presentation material for the first quarter ended June 30, 2004, adjusted income (loss) from continuing operations excludes, in addition to the items excluded from adjusted gross margin discussed above, the following items:

Accruals For Certain Payments To CenterPoint Energy, Inc. (CenterPoint). We have excluded this item because of its non-recurring nature. CenterPoint is required to make this one-time payment pursuant to a provision of the Texas electric restructuring law and we committed to CenterPoint in our separation agreements to make this payment to CenterPoint. Excluding this item is useful to investors, analysts and others because it provides a fairer representation of our results of operations on an ongoing basis. For additional information, see Note 14(d) to the consolidated financial statement in our Annual Report of Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2003.

Accelerated Depreciation related to Asset Retirement. Our decision to retire the Wayne generation facility (a 66 megawatt, oil-fueled generation facility in Pennsylvania) was made in connection with our current review of our wholesale energy business. Although we may retire additional generation assets, we do not believe this asset retirement is representative of our normal ongoing operations. We believe that excluding this item is useful to investors, analysts and others because it provides a more meaningful representation of our results of operations on an ongoing basis. For additional information, see Note 6 to the consolidated financial statement in our Annual Report of Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2003.

Impairment of Equipment for Abandoned Generation Project. In the second quarter of 2004, we recognized a $16 million pre-tax impairment loss for generators and turbine equipment originally purchased in September 2002 for use in a generation project. The project was subsequently abandoned and the equipment held for possible resale. In 2002, we recorded a $37 million pre-tax impairment loss for this equipment. Because our normal business operations do not involve the purchase and sale of generators and turbines, and associated marketing risks, we have excluded this item from the calculation of adjusted income (loss) from continuing operations. We believe that excluding this item is useful to investors, analysts and others because it provides a more meaningful representation of our results of operations on an ongoing basis.

Severance and Restructuring Charges. We have excluded severance and restructuring charges incurred in connection with our cost reduction programs. We have undertaken the cost reduction programs in connection with a specific plan to reposition the company to capitalize on industry restructuring. We do not believe that the level of these costs is representative of our ongoing business operations. Therefore, excluding these costs is useful in that it provides a more meaningful representation of our results of operations on a long-term, normalized basis.

Net Reduction of California-Related Reserves Interest Income. See discussion above.

Free Cash Flow. In certain of our earnings presentations, including the presentation to analysts and investors published on our corporate web site in connection with the release of earnings for the quarterly period ended June 30, 2004, we use the non-GAAP financial measure Free Cash Flow. We define free cash flow as operating cash flow (a GAAP measure) excluding cash severance costs and changes in cash collateral postings, accounts receivable factoring and restricted cash less capital expenditures. In addition, our estimate for free cash flow for 2004 excludes the payment required to be made to CenterPoint as described above. Free cash flow may not be representative of the amount of residual cash flow that is available to us for discretionary expenditures, since it may not include deductions for all non-discretionary expenditures. Our management believes, however, that free cash flow is a useful measure in that it provides a representation of our cash level available to service debt on a normalized basis.

EBIT and EBITDA. We sometimes use in our investor presentations the non-GAAP terms, earnings (loss) before interest and taxes (EBIT), adjusted EBIT, earnings (loss) before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization (EBITDA) and adjusted EBITDA. We believe that EBIT, adjusted EBIT, EBITDA and adjusted EBITDA can provide a more meaningful representation of our performance for purposes of communicating with analysts and investors about earnings outlook and results. Most analysts and investors use EBIT and EBITDA to evaluate financial performance. In addition, we use EBIT as a measure to evaluate segment performance. For information regarding items that we exclude from EBIT and EBITDA in calculating adjusted EBIT or adjusted EBITDA, see the information of excluded items discussed above.

The foregoing non-GAAP financial measures and other reported adjusted items are used in addition to and in conjunction with results presented in accordance with GAAP. These non-GAAP financial measures should not be relied upon to the exclusion of GAAP financial measures. These non-GAAP financial measures reflect an additional way of viewing aspects of our operations that, when viewed with our GAAP results and the accompanying reconciliations to corresponding GAAP financial measures, may provide a more complete understanding of factors and trends affecting our business. We strongly encourage investors to review our financial statements and publicly filed reports in their entirety and to not rely on any single financial measure.

Because non-GAAP financial measures are not standardized, it may not be possible to compare these financial measures with other companies non-GAAP financial measures having the same or similar names.
