FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

ALCOA REAFFIRMS OFFER FOR ALCAN AS THE MOST COMPELLING CHOICE

FOR ALCAN'S SHAREHOLDERS

Montréal, Québec and New York, New York (May 23, 2007) Alcoa Inc. (NYSE: AA) today reaffirmed its pending offer to acquire all outstanding common shares of Alcan Inc. (TSX: AL; NYSE: AL) for US$58.60 in cash and 0.4108 of a share of Alcoa common stock as the most compelling choice for Alcan's shareholders.

Commenting on the Directors' Circular filed by Alcan's Board of Directors yesterday, Alain J.P. Belda, Alcoa's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer said, "We are pleased that Alcan recognizes both the strategic rationale of this combination, and the unique opportunity to achieve US$1 billion in annual synergies. Alcoa is the most logical partner for Alcan, and our proposed combination is driven by an unquestionable strategic and industrial logic. We have studied Alcan's response and have not seen anything that would lead us to reevaluate our offer. We continue to believe that our offer is full and fair, providing substantial value to Alcan's shareholders. We have already met with a significant number of Alcan's shareholders and are pleased to have received strong support for the combination."

Based on Alcoa's closing price on May 22, 2007, the Alcoa offer has a value of US$74.60 per Alcan common share, a 35% premium to Alcan's average closing share price on the NYSE over the 30 trading days through May 4, 2007, the last trading day prior to announcement of the offer, and a 22% premium to Alcan's closing price on May 4, 2007, its all-time high prior to the announcement of Alcoa's offer. The Alcoa offer provides Alcan shareholders with the certainty of a significant cash payment, plus a share of the combined company's upside through ownership in the world's premier fully integrated aluminum company.

"We are pleased that Alcan has recognized the US$1 billion in annual pre-tax synergies that can be realized from this combination. We are confident that this level of synergies can only be realized by combining our two companies due to their complementary fit. We are also confident that we can realize these synergies while also meeting the requirements of Alcan's Continuity Agreement with the Government of Québec and obtaining necessary regulatory approvals," continued Mr. Belda.

We are prepared to move forward as quickly as possible to address the remaining conditions to our offer. We have an aggressive, well-developed plan that recognizes and eliminates potential competitive overlaps and we are confident that we can effectively resolve any regulatory issues. We have commenced discussions with competition authorities in the U.S., Canada and Europe, as well as other jurisdictions, and are developing our formal submissions to competition authorities. We are also confident that we can demonstrate to regulators the pro-competitive benefits of this combination.

Alcan has noted that important conditions to any acquisition of the company are the satisfaction of the terms of Alcan's Continuity Agreement with the Government of Québec and review under the Investment Canada Act. We are uniquely capable of making the commitments required to meet and exceed these conditions. As outlined in our letter to Alcan's Board of Directors on May 17, 2007, we are confident we have already met and exceeded the conditions under the Continuity Agreement and continue to believe that Alcan's Board of Directors should immediately begin its review of Alcoa's submissions.

Mr. Belda concluded, "Both companies' shareholders understand that today's rapidly changing industry landscape underscores the strategic imperative and logic of this combination. The proposed transaction addresses the long-term challenges posed by competitors emerging in Russia, China, India and the Middle East. Together, Alcoa and Alcan will create a premier aluminum company with a strong, complementary portfolio of businesses. We will benefit from an optimized portfolio of upstream assets, enhanced capacity for growth, strong technology, operations and talent, and shared values and commitment to sustainability. We believe it is in the best interests of Alcan's shareholders and employees that the Alcan Board and management join us in moving as quickly as possible to address the remaining conditions to a successful Alcoa-Alcan combination."

HIGHLIGHTS OF ALCOA'S OFFER

SIGNIFICANT VALUE

Alcoa's offer is financially compelling.

Based on Alcoa's closing price on May 22, 2007, the offer has a value of US$74.60 per Alcan common share, a 35% premium to Alcan's average closing share price on the NYSE over the 30 trading days through May 4, 2007, the last trading day prior to announcement of the offer, and a 22% premium to Alcan's closing price on May 4, 2007, its all-time high stock price prior to the announcement of Alcoa's offer.

The offer provides Alcan shareholders with liquidity and value certainty through a significant cash payment, plus a share of the combined company's upside through an aggregate 15% equity ownership in the world's premier fully integrated aluminum company.

COMPLEMENTARY FIT ASSETS, TECHNOLOGIES, PEOPLE

Alcoa is the most natural strategic partner for Alcan.

The transaction combines Alcoa's leading position in alumina with Alcan's strong smelting assets. A combined Alcoa-Alcan will have a world-class bauxite and alumina franchise with sufficient alumina to support the growth objectives of the combined company.

The combined company will benefit from best-in-class operational expertise and technology and a low-cost production base, with the majority of production in the bottom half of the cost curve.

Both companies are significant investors in high return growth projects. The combined company will have a larger capital base and enhanced cash flow to fund these growth plans and respond to future increases in aluminum demand. It will also be better able to manage the risks of large scale investments.

The combined company will have significantly improved access to long-term, low-cost energy, with 34% of its power self-generated, 54% under long-term contract, and 54% of power from renewable hydroelectric power.

Both Alcoa and Alcan bring emerging, breakthrough technologies to the combination aimed at reducing emissions of greenhouse gases, improving the efficiency of the smelting process, and facilitating low cost aluminum production.

The combination of Alcoa and Alcan is unmatched in terms of its ability to deepen an already extensive commitment by both companies to Canada and will ensure that Canada remains a world leader in the aluminum industry.

Alcoa believes it has the biggest synergy footprint of any potential buyer of Alcan. Alcoa expects the combination to generate pre-tax cost synergies of approximately US$1 billion annually once fully implemented in the third year following closing. Given earlier extensive discussions with Alcan and Alcoa's significant experience integrating acquisitions, Alcoa believes these synergy estimates are accurate and reasonable. Alcan's response does not fundamentally challenge these estimates.

Alcoa is a recognized leader in areas such as safety, environment and sustainability. Alcoa has a track-record of creating best in class management teams which draw on the strengths of acquired companies and is committed to successfully integrating Alcan to create a shared future.

CERTAINTY OF EXECUTION

Alcoa has studied the merits of this combination for more than two years. We have completed a thorough diligence review from publicly available sources. We have a thoughtful and detailed integration plan in place and are prepared to move forward expeditiously.

We accept the responsibility for a timely resolution of the regulatory issues as it is in the interest of both Alcan's and Alcoa's shareholders to have certainty around this offer as soon as possible. Alcoa has a well-developed, detailed roadmap to resolve these issues in each relevant jurisdiction and is confident that the transaction will be approved. The industry landscape has changed significantly in the last five to ten years, becoming increasingly competitive with a number of emerging global players. With the assistance of expert counsel in relevant jurisdictions, Alcoa has carefully considered the applicable regulatory requirements and is prepared to make the necessary targeted divestitures in the appropriate industry segments. Alcoa is in active dialogue with regulatory agencies and is working proactively to address concerns.

After reviewing the recently published Continuity Agreement between the Government of Québec and Alcan, Alcoa believes its plans would not only meet, but exceed, all of its conditions relating to commitments in Québec. Alcoa is confident that the terms of the Agreement will not hinder Alcoa's offer for Alcan and has determined and publicly stated that the condition to its offer relating to certain contractual provisions affecting Alcan's power or water rights in Canada has been satisfied.

Alcoa's offer expires on July 10, 2007 and cannot be amended to end before that time. Alcoa expects to extend the offer from time to time to accommodate the anticipated longer period necessary to fulfill the conditions of the offer. Alcoa cannot take up or pay for any Alcan common shares prior to the expiration time of the offer. Therefore, Alcoa reconfirms its determination that the offer, as made, is a Permitted Bid under Alcan's Shareholder Rights Plan.

Alcoa's offer is not conditioned on Alcoa shareholder approval, financing or the completion of due diligence.

Alcoa believes that it can effectively address the remaining customary conditions to its offer, including those related to regulatory approvals, and the company intends to close the transaction as quickly as possible.

ALCOA'S PROVEN TRACK RECORD

Alcoa has a strong record of superior operational performance, acquisition integration, achieving targeted synergies, and delivering both investment returns and shareholder value. The management team will continue to do so for the combined company.

Throughout the past decade, Alcoa has outperformed Alcan in Return on Capital. We believe our shareholders are well served by a company that can deliver results in down markets as well as buoyant ones, and our investors have consistently awarded us a higher price to earnings multiple than Alcan for that performance.
