Item 8.01

Other Events.

As previously reported by SonoSite, Inc. in various filings with the SEC, Neutrino Development Corporation of Texas filed a complaint against us on July 24, 2001, in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Texas, Houston Division, alleging that SonoSite's use, sale and manufacture of the SonoSite 180, SonoSite 180 PLUS, SonoHeart and SonoHeart PLUS devices infringe Neutrino's U.S. patent 6,221,021, or the '021 patent. On October 4, 2001, the court issued an order denying a request by Neutrino for a preliminary injunction to prevent us from manufacturing and selling our products pending the ultimate disposition of the litigation. After motion practice, preliminary discovery, and a "Markman" hearing in February 2002 to construe the claim language as a matter of law, the parties filed motions for summary judgment and the case was stayed pending the court's resolution of summary judgment motions.

On September 30, 2004, the Texas court issued its rulings on the summary judgment motions. First, the court denied SonoSite's Motion for Summary Judgment Based on Invalidity, finding that there are issues of fact in dispute that must be resolved by a jury at trial. Second, the court granted Neutrino's Motion for Summary Judgment of Infringement, finding that the SonoSite products infringe the '021 patent as the Court has construed the claims in the Markman hearing. As a result of these orders, it is expected that the court will hold a scheduling conference in the next 60 days and date set for a jury trial in 2005. These orders do not constitute a final disposition of this case.

We believe that we have good and sufficient defenses to the claims of patent infringement asserted against us by Neutrino and we will continue to vigorously defend ourselves in this matter. We have not accrued any amounts for potential losses related to these proceedings. Because of uncertainties related to both the amount and range of loss on the pending litigation, management is unable to make a reasonable estimate of the liability that could result from an unfavorable outcome. As additional information becomes available, we will assess the potential liability related to this pending litigation. We will record accruals for losses if and when we determine that a negative outcome of such matters is probable and reasonably estimable.

Neutrino also filed suit in the Middle District of Florida on August 19, 2003 against a former SonoSite distributor alleging that a limited number of SonoSite 180 products sold by that distributor infringed the '021 patent. We assumed defense of the Florida action. The court, upon Neutrino's motion, later added SonoSite as a defendant. Neutrino alleges that our sales of our iLook 15, iLook 25, SonoHeart Elite and Titan products also infringe the '021 patent. The distributor does not sell the iLook, SonoHeart Elite or Titan products. In June 2004, the Florida Court stayed all proceedings in the Florida action for six months, pending activity in the Texas case. The Texas court recently denied our request to stay proceedings in the Florida action because the Florida court had already stayed that action.
