Commission File No. 001-32638

Date: February 17, 2016

To all colleagues:

We hope the new year is off to a good start for you after a busy and challenging 2015.

Of course, 2016 will be a busy and challenging year as well, but it also will be eventful and exciting as we bring our companies together to form the largest and most capable container leasing company in the world.

We are making good progress with our merger project. Since we announced the merger in November, we have been focused on three main tasks:

- Developing a plan for integrating our two companies into one best-in-class business,
- Receiving anti-trust approvals for the merger, and
- Preparing the S-4 registration statement.

The following summarizes what has been accomplished to date:

Business Integration

We and our broader integration planning teams have been working since the announcement to develop a plan that will allow us to quickly bring the two companies together after the transaction closes. As importantly, we are also highly focused on making sure the integration process is seamless to our customers, lenders and other key partners. We have many projects underway, but this update will focus on our progress with organizational planning and building out the senior commercial leadership team for the new organization.

The first thing we discussed as part of our organizational planning was what we are trying to accomplish with the new organization. We determined that the organizational design for the new company should:

- Embody the best attributes of each organization. This will involve blending simplicity, speed, cost leadership, precision and market creativity.

- Preserve the key commercial strengths and customer relationships of each company.

- Include a mix of original TAL and original Triton staff at all levels of the new organization to make sure the combined company preserves the historical knowledge and benefits from the best practices of both companies.

- Provide expanded opportunities and responsibilities for our highly talented front line staffs.

While the above principles aided our efforts to identify what we currently believe will be the most effective senior commercial management team for the combined company, given the strong leaders and deep talent pool at both companies we are faced with many difficult choices. It is important to note that the decisions reached throughout this process do not diminish the huge historical contributions from the senior leaders of Triton and TAL who are not currently being considered for the post-integration senior leadership positions referred to below.

Please also note that the selection of a business leader for one part of the combined company's commercial operation does not mean that the rest of the staff in that area will be primarily made up of individuals from such leader's company. One of our key principles is ensuring a strong mix of staff in all parts of the new organization.

While many more critical roles need to be identified (including the leadership positions for all major support functions), we have identified the following people to take major commercial leadership positions within the new company.

Individual	Primary Area(s) of Focus
John O'Callaghan	Global field sales and operations
Kevin Valentine	Global re-sale, chassis and tanks
Willem Put	Global re-sale team
Bernd Schackier	Europe and NA/SA field sales and operations
Filip De Bruin	Europe sales and operations; reporting oversight for specials and new products
Kenny Wan	North Asia field sales and operations
Jeanie Tan	Southeast Asia and Australasia field sales and operations
Hiroshi Asai	Japan field sales and operations
Peter Church	Reefer container product management
Hessel Nederveen	Reefer container product management team
Glen Regier	Dry Van container product management
Serkan Badoglu	Pricing
Greg Stackhouse	Procurement
Brian Darnowski	Global operations

This expanded group of commercial and operational leaders has met with our Executive Team to help us develop detailed staffing and business process plans for the combined organization. Ideally, we will be able to provide a more complete picture of the combined commercial and operational side of the organization within the next month.

We would also like to identify the leaders for the new company's support functions and develop an IT integration plan within the next month or so as well.

It is important to note that our integration planning is contingent upon the closing of the transaction and prior to that time we expect each of our companies will maintain their current leadership structures with their respective leaders continuing to maintain their current responsibilities and duties.

We appreciate that change of this magnitude creates uncertainty. Therefore, we are committed to clarifying all aspects of the expected integration process as quickly as possible.

Anti-Trust Approvals

Prior to announcing the merger transaction, Triton's and TAL's outside legal counsels conducted a study of the merger to determine in which jurisdictions we would need to file for anti-trust approval. We filed for approval in the United States, Germany and South Korea. We are very pleased to announce that as of January 5th we have received approval from all three.

S-4 Registration Statement

The merger agreement must be approved by a majority of TAL's shareholders at a special shareholder meeting, and we need to provide TAL's shareholders with an official S-4 registration statement prior to calling the meeting.

The S-4 registration statement includes information on Triton's and TAL's historical financial performance, a summary of the merger agreements, a pro forma financial summary of the combined company and many other details. Preparing this document required a huge effort from the accounting and legal teams of both companies. We filed the first draft of this statement with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") on Christmas Eve. Thank you to everyone that worked long hours getting us to this stage!

Once effective, the S-4 will be provided to TAL's shareholders in solicitation of their approval of the merger.

While there is still a tremendous amount of work ahead of us, and many difficult choices to make, we are pleased with the progress made to date and are extremely excited about what we can accomplish by bringing our two outstanding companies together. Market conditions remain very difficult, but the exceptional capabilities and improved cost efficiency of the combined company will uniquely position us to make the most of the current environment and maximize the benefits of an eventual recovery.

We sincerely appreciate your continued hard work, professionalism and dedication through this process.

Sincerely,

Brian Sondey Simon Vernon
