19 Highly Qualified, Experienced and Engaged Board (cont.) • Over the past seven years, Superior has recruited five new directors to bring new perspectives, insights, experiences and competencies to enhance Superior's long - term prospects and shareholder value: • 2007: Margaret S. Dano & Francisco S. Uranga • 2011: Timothy C. McQuay • 2013: James S. McElya • 2014: Donald J. Stebbins • 2014: Paul J. Humphries (candidate) • Of the four nominees being recommended at the 2014 Annual Meeting by the Board (Paul J. Humphries, James S. McElya, Donald J. Stebbins and Francisco S. Uranga), only Mr. Uranga was a member of the Board at the time of last year's Annual Meeting

20 Commitment to Strong Corporate Governance Principles • Proactively declassified Board structure with phase - in to be completed by 2015 Annual Meeting • Board Chairman and CEO positions have been separated • Director resignation policy proactively adopted • CEO is only management representative on Board. All other directors qualify as independent directors under the NYSE's listing standards • All Board committee memberships restricted to independent directors • Stock ownership policy adopted for Board members, requiring each non - employee director to own shares of Superior's common stock equal to 3 - times annual cash retainer • No poison pill • Shareholders have the right to call special meetings with only a 10% ownership threshold • No executive employment contracts, except CEO • Transition to pay for performance • Change of control protection requires double - trigger • No gross - up provisions Board of Directors Shareholder Rights Executive Comp.

21 GAMCO — History and Background • Presented annually for 30+ years at Gabeli Automotive Aftermarket Symposium • Past SUP participants have included the Founding Chairman and current Chairman • Only exceptions were in 2012 due to timing conflict with earnings release and in 2013 due to the proxy contest • Invited to participate in November 2014 automotive investor conference – has accepted invitation • GAMCO (including affiliates) has been SUP shareholder since 2005 • Share accumulation has been steady throughout ownership history • Reached 1 million share ownership in 4Q09 • More than doubled investment to almost 3.6 million shares (13.2%) since Founding Chairman passed away in late 2011

22 GAMCO — No Case for Change • Despite being rebuffed by shareholders last year*, GAMCO again proposed an alternative slate of director candidates without providing any credible arguments as to why it believes that change is necessary • GAMCO has not pointed out any particular failings by Superior • GAMCO has neither articulated an alternative strategic plan nor proposed any specific ideas for improving Superior’s prospects or enhancing shareholder value • GAMCO withdrew its own shareholder proposal for a $40 million Dutch auction stock - buyback, implicitly conceding that Superior’s strong capital return does not require change • In fact, GAMCO states in its Preliminary Proxy Statement dated July 8, 2014, “Our nominees do not have any specific plans for the Company....” * See slide 30

23 Superior has Proven its Commitment to Effect Change Whenever Needed • Superior's Board has demonstrated time and again that when change is necessary, it has the relevant experience and commitment to effect necessary changes • The main issues that Superior faces are specific to the automotive industry • Superior's slate of nominees has extensive automotive industry experience essential to address those issues, namely, how to be a stronger competitor in a highly competitive global marketplace • GAMCO's slate of nominees has no automotive industry experience • Superior's Board has proven that when change is needed, it has the relevant experience and commitment to make the necessary changes • Over the past five years, the Board has implemented numerous changes to better position the Company for the future: appointment of a new CEO; reconstitution of the Board; enhancements to corporate governance; strategic investments to make Superior a stronger and more efficient competitor; and Superior's strong return of capital • Even GAMCO acknowledges in its proxy materials the significant changes effected for the better at Superior, and has provided no basis for claiming any concern about the Board's ability to effect any additional change that it deems may be necessary

24 Superior has Proven its Commitment to Effect Change Whenever Needed (cont.) • GAMCO has not demonstrated how its nominees have the necessary qualifications and experience to address the challenges that lie ahead for Superior • Not one of GAMCO's nominees has a utomotive industry experience • GAMCO's nominees would not bring to Superior's Board any relevant skills or competencies not already present among the current Board members, including its newest nominee • We question the suitability of one of GAMCO's nominees, Walter Schenker, to serve on the board of any public company, given his past issues with the SEC; Mr. Schenker, rejected as a candidate by Superior's shareholders at last year's Annual Meeting, consented to being permanently restrained and enjoined from violations of Section 5 of the Securities Act of 1933 and paid a civil penalty • We also question GAMCO's judgment in proposing as one of its other nominees, 29 - year - old Ryan Morris, who lacks any automotive industry experience, and in fact, lacks any experience as a director of a public company with annual revenues greater than $100 million, let alone a company of Superior's size

25 ISS Recommends Vote FOR Superior's Nominees Leading proxy advisory firm ISS, in a report dated July 29, 2014, recommends voting for each of Superior's nominees: Other ISS comments include: – "Given the significant and recent changes at the board level, shareholders appear better served by supporting management nominees as they continue executing on recent initiatives." – "The company also has made significant changes to its corporate governance over the past year with the declassification of the board, the separation of the CEO and Chairman position, and the adoption of director resignation and stock ownership policies for the board." – "The dissident has argued that change is necessary because of the company's poor record of returning capital to shareholders. However, the company has returned $114 million to shareholders in the form of dividends and share repurchases." "As the dissident has not made a compelling case that additional change at the board level is warranted, votes FOR the management nominees on the WHITE management card are warranted."

26 Executive Summary Superior Industries x Leveraging leading position in North American market by strategically investing capital to become a stronger and more efficient global competitor x Automotive parts industry veteran Don Stebbins appointed as new CEO to build on iconic industry brand and reputation established over 50 years by Louis and Steven Borick x Strong return of capital to shareholders through stock repurchases and cash dividends ($114 M over past 5 years) x Highly qualified, experienced and engaged board reflects a balance of valued experience and new perspectives (five new directors since 2007) x Strong corporate governance principles GAMCO GAMCO admits to having no plans to enhance value for shareholders GAMCO withdrew its only idea offered – a Dutch auction tender offer GAMCO has not provided any credible arguments as why its candidates are more qualified than Superior’s nominees GAMCO took a similar approach last year and was rebuffed by Superior’s shareholders As with last year, GAMCO’s director nominees do not have executive - level manufacturing or automotive industry experience Superior made numerous attempts to avoid what it considers a needless, costly and distracting proxy contest with GAMCO, including a very reasonable offer to add a GAMCO designee to the Board, but GAMCO rejected proposed settlement offer Shareholders are urged to vote the WHITE proxy card
