Item 2.05. Costs Associated with Exit or Disposal Activities

On December 8, 2010, Insteel Industries, Inc. (the Company) issued a press release announcing that it was closing its leased facility in Houston, Texas and moving the manufacturing to its Dayton, Texas plant. The production equipment at the Houston facility was acquired in connection with the Company's recent purchase of certain of the assets of Ivy Steel & Wire, Inc. (Ivy).

The consolidation of the plants is expected to result in the elimination of 67 positions at the Houston facility and the addition of 19 positions at the Dayton plant, which will be offered to the Houston employees, for a net reduction of 48 positions. It is anticipated that operations at the Houston facility will cease by the end of February 2011 and the equipment will be redeployed to other Company locations.

Additional details regarding (i) the estimated amount or range of amounts with respect to each major type of cost associated with the closing of the Houston facility; (ii) an estimate of the total amount or range of amounts expected to be incurred in connection with the closing of the Houston facility; and (iii) an estimate of the amount or range of amounts that will result in future cash expenditures, will be filed on an amended Current Report on Form 8-K within four business days after the Company makes a determination of such an estimate or range of estimates.

Cautionary Note Regarding Forward-Looking Statements

This report contains forward-looking statements within the meaning of the safe harbor provisions of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. When used in this report, the words believes, anticipates, expects, estimates, plans, intends, may, should and similar expressions are intended to identify forward-looking statements. Although the Company believes that its plans, intentions and expectations reflected in or suggested by such forward-looking statements are reasonable, such forward-looking statements are subject to a number of risks and uncertainties, and the Company can provide no assurances that such plans, intentions or expectations will be achieved. Many of these risks and uncertainties are discussed in detail in the Company's periodic and other reports and statements that it files with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (the SEC), in particular in its Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended October 2, 2010. You should carefully review these risks and uncertainties.

All forward-looking statements attributable to the Company or persons acting on its behalf are expressly qualified in their entirety by these cautionary statements. All forward-looking statements speak only to the respective dates on which such statements are made and the Company does not undertake and specifically declines any obligation to publicly release the results of any revisions to these forward-looking statements that may be made to reflect any future events or circumstances after the date of such statements or to reflect the occurrence of anticipated or unanticipated events, except as may be required by law.

It is not possible to anticipate and list all risks and uncertainties that may affect the Company's future operations or financial performance; however, they include, but are not limited to, the following: potential difficulties that may be encountered in integrating the acquisition of certain assets of Ivy into the Company's existing business; potential difficulties in realizing synergies, including reduced operating costs, with respect to the Company's acquisition of certain assets of Ivy and the cessation of operations at the Houston, Texas facility; competitive and customer responses to the Company's expanded business; general economic and competitive conditions in the markets in which the Company operates; credit market conditions and the relative availability of financing to the Company, its customers and the construction industry as a whole; the continuation of reduced spending for nonresidential construction, particularly commercial construction, and the impact on demand for the Company's products; the timing of the resolution of a new multi-year federal transportation funding authorization and the magnitude of the infrastructure-related funding provided for that requires the use of the Company's products; the severity and duration of the downturn in residential construction and the impact on those portions of the Company's business that are correlated with the housing sector; the cyclical nature of the steel and building material industries; fluctuations in the cost and availability of the Company's primary raw material, hot-rolled steel wire rod, from domestic and foreign suppliers; competitive pricing pressures and the Company's ability to raise selling prices in order to recover increases in wire rod costs; changes in U.S. or foreign trade policy affecting imports or exports of steel wire rod or the Company's products; unanticipated changes in customer demand, order patterns and inventory levels; the impact of weak demand and reduced capacity utilization levels on the Company's unit manufacturing costs; the Company's ability to further develop the market for engineered structural mesh (ESM) and expand its shipments of ESM; legal,
