Our Business

We develop, manufacture and market composite building materials that are used in place of traditional wood products for exterior applications in building and remodeling homes and for certain other industrial or commercial building purposes. Since inception in 1989, we have sold in excess of $235 million of products into the North American marketplace. Our products are made from approximately equal amounts of waste wood fiber and reclaimed polyethylene plastic, have been extensively tested, and are sold by leading national companies such as the Weyerhaeuser Company (Weyerhaeuser), Lowe's Companies, Inc. (Lowe's) and Therma-Tru Corporation. Our growing line of non-wood alternative building materials include standard door components, windowsills, brick mould, fascia board, and heavy industrial flooring sold under the trade names LifeCycle®, MoistureShield®, MoistureShield® CornerLoc and a variety of composite decking products under the trade name Weyerhaeuser ChoiceDek®. We operate five manufacturing facilities. The composite building products are manufactured in Junction, Texas and Springdale, Arkansas. There are two plastic processing plants one in Lowell, Arkansas and one in Alexandria, Louisiana and a painting, finishing and packaging plant in Tontitown, Arkansas.

Table of Contents

Risk Factors

This offering involves a high degree of risk. You should carefully consider the risks described below and other information contained in this prospectus before deciding to invest in shares of our Class A common stock.

We have a working capital deficit

At September 30, 2004, we had a working capital deficit of $1.1 million and at December 31, 2003, we had a working capital deficit of $1.9 million. The working capital deficit is the result of previously incurred losses from operations and our decision to finance capital projects with cash generated from operations. Additionally, pursuant to our bond agreement, we are required to maintain a debt service reserve fund in the amount of $2 million, which is classified as a non-current asset in our balance sheet.

Our limited manufacturing capabilities could restrain our business growth

The long-term success of our operations will depend upon the manufacture of our composite products on a substantially greater commercial scale than we have engaged in to date or have the current production capacity to engage in. Our primary customers and markets are large, and continued increased sales growth will require significant capital expenditures. Although we believe financing can be obtained to add production equipment and build additional manufacturing facilities, there is no assurance that we will secure the necessary financing or that the equipment and facilities will become operational in a timely manner. We currently have one composite manufacturing facility in Junction, Texas, and a second composite manufacturing facility in Springdale, Arkansas, but plan to increase production capacity at both facilities, and plan to build a third composite manufacturing facility adjacent to our current facility in Springdale in 2005.

Table of Contents

Declines in construction activity may adversely affect our business

Our engineered composites have been marketed primarily to companies that manufacture products for use by the construction industry in new home construction and home improvement work. The construction industry is subject to significant fluctuations in activity and to periodic downturns caused by general economic conditions. Increases in long-term interest rates can have a negative effect by slowing housing starts due to increased financing costs. Reductions in construction activity could have an adverse effect on the demand for our composites in the door and window market. However, we believe our decking lines, which are primarily targeted to the independent contractor-oriented lumber dealers and the remodeling market, are not as susceptible to downturns in construction activity.

The loss of one or more of our key customers could cause a substantial reduction in our revenues

We could be materially adversely affected if we were to lose one or more of our large existing customers. We have limited our marketing to major industrial companies with large market shares nationwide in the building material, door, and window construction industries. Our principal marketing and distribution channel for our decking material is Weyerhaeuser, which accounted for 81% of our sales in both 2003 and 2002. Since inception, a few large door and window construction companies have historically purchased substantially our entire MoistureShield® product line. Most of our key door and window customers are not contractually obligated to purchase additional products.

Fire disruptions may adversely affect our business

Our raw materials and manufacturing processes involve a greater than average risk of fire loss or disruption. We experienced a series of fires in 1996, which severely disrupted our manufacturing operations, although these were determined to be instances of arson. The pattern of fires caused our fire insurance to be cancelled, but we were subsequently able to renew it. There was an accidental fire at our Junction, Texas facility in March 2003, which caused substantial damage and temporarily shut down plant operations. Although we have increased security and increased fire protection equipment at our facilities, another major fire could occur and materially adversely affect our operations.

We could face future litigation

We were sued in May 2000, in a federal action in the Western District of Texas, for breach of contract seeking royalties allegedly owed but unpaid from a 1987 settlement of prior litigation against a predecessor entity and two of our founders in the United States District Court for the Western District. The plaintiffs were seeking approximately $1.2 million in past royalties, plus attorneys' fees, any applicable pre-judgment and post-judgment interest, and a declaration that we pay an ongoing royalty in the amount of $10 per ton on future sales from our Junction, Texas facility on production utilizing cedar fiber and recycled plastic. In 2001, the plaintiffs amended the complaint to include two of our founders as co-defendants. At trial, the plaintiffs obtained a judgment for past royalties in the amount of approximately $821,000, plus prejudgment and post-judgment interest and attorneys' fees. We settled the lawsuit in December 2002 for $1,100,000. The court, in May 2002, declined to enter a declaratory judgment requested by the plaintiff requiring us to pay a royalty on a monthly basis in the future on our products, but the release executed in connection with the December 2002 settlement does not release any potential claims for royalties after January 1, 2002.

Table of Contents

Covenants in our bond agreements could restrict our ability to borrow, which could impair the improvement and expansion of our operations

Certain covenants in our bond agreements restrict the types and amounts of additional indebtedness that we may incur, including a requirement that, with certain exceptions, we may only incur additional indebtedness to the extent it would satisfy a debt incurrence coverage ratio of 250% of income before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization to debt service. Those restrictions could inhibit our ability to improve our current operations and expand our operations. Additionally, our ability to secure adequate working capital to support our day-to-day operations as we grow could be limited by the covenants in our bond agreements.

If we are unable to comply with certain debt covenants, our financial position and operations could be adversely affected

The bond agreement contains financial covenants, which include a current ratio of not less than 1.00 to 1.00 and a requirement that not more than 10% of accounts payable be in excess of 75 days past the invoice date. We were not in compliance with these two covenants at December 31, 2003. The accounts payable covenant was waived, and the current ratio covenant was modified to include the debt service reserve fund in current assets for purposes of the current ratio calculation, resulting in our compliance with this covenant at December 31, 2003. There is no assurance that we will be able to comply with these debt covenants in the future, or that the bondholder will waive or modify the covenants in the future. If we are unable to comply with the covenants or obtain a waiver or modification of the covenants in the future, then the bond debt in the amount of $14.4 million could immediately become due and payable, the bondholder could foreclose on the property used to secure the debt, and the bondholder could claim our revenues pledged as part of the bond agreement.

Our common stock could be diluted or otherwise adversely affected by additional issuances of preferred stock

Additional issuances of preferred stock may provide for rights that adversely affect the Class A common stock or may be convertible into shares of Class A common stock on a basis which would cause dilution. We are authorized to issue up to 5,000,000 shares of preferred stock, 2,900 shares of which have been issued. Our board of directors is empowered to fix the terms of the preferred stock without stockholder approval, which terms may adversely affect the rights of holders of the Class A common stock.

We could be required to pay liquidated damages on preferred stock

If we default under certain obligations with respect to our outstanding preferred stock, we may be required to pay liquidated damages to the holders of the preferred stock. Our outstanding Series A, B and C convertible preferred stock (total stated value of $2,760,000) has a 10% per annum accreting premium for conversion, redemption and liquidation purposes. Although the preferred stock is not mandatorily redeemable, we could be required to pay as liquidated damages an amount equal to 10% of the stated value of the preferred stock if we default under the provisions of the preferred stock agreements. The liquidated damages amount is payable at our option in either cash or shares of Class A common stock. The redemption price is generally equal to the greater of (a) the aggregate market value of the Class A common stock into which the preferred stock could be converted and (b) 115% of the sum of (i) the stated value, (ii) the 10% per annum premium, and (iii) any unpaid conversion default payment. Payment of the liquidated damages amount in common stock would result in substantial dilution to existing holders of common stock.

The floating conversion feature of our convertible preferred stock could cause a drop in our stock price

Conversion of a material amount of our convertible preferred stock into Class A common stock, which would increase the total number of Class A common stock in the marketplace, could cause a drop in our stock price. Our convertible preferred stock is convertible into common stock at the holder's option at any time at a conversion price equal to the lower of a fixed $1.20 conversion price or the 10-trading day average closing bid price immediately prior to the date of conversion. At November 11, 2004, the applicable conversion price was $1.20.

Based on these conversion price formulae, whenever the prevailing market price of the common stock is below $1.20, the convertible preferred stock will be convertible into a proportionately greater number of shares of common stock. The number of shares we could be required to issue in payment of the premium on the preferred stock would also increase whenever the market price of the common stock is below $1.20. In that event, the lower the price of our common stock at the time of conversion, the more shares into which the convertible preferred stock will be convertible. There is no minimum conversion price for the preferred stock. These increases in the number of shares issuable upon conversion of the convertible preferred stock and upon payment of the premium on the preferred stock could result in a substantial dilution to other holders of Class A common stock and could cause a decline in the market price of the Class A common stock due to the added number of shares in the market. In addition, substantial sales by the holders of the convertible preferred stock could place further downward pressure on our stock price and permit holders of our convertible preferred stock to convert additional shares at a lower price, which would further add to the number of shares in the market and cause the price to fall further. An additional reduction of the price of Class A common stock shares may occur if shareholders or others begin to sell the Class A common stock short to take advantage of the falling stock price caused by preferred stock holders converting material amounts of their preferred stock.

Future sales of shares could be dilutive and impair our ability to raise capital

The conversion of a significant number of our outstanding derivative securities into Class A common stock could adversely affect the market price of the stock. At November 11, 2004, we had reserved approximately 23,339,300 shares of Class A common stock for issuance upon conversion of outstanding preferred stock, Class B Common stock, and upon exercise of outstanding warrants and options. Of those reserved shares, 18,705,170 are covered by other registration statements and can be sold from time to time. This prospectus covers the potential sale from time to time of up to 335,000 of such reserved shares of Class A common stock.

The exercise or conversion of a material amount of such securities will result in a dilution in interest for our other security holders. Such convertible securities, whether converted into stock or not, could impair our ability to obtain additional capital because of the potential for dilution. Also, the holders of such securities may be expected to exercise their rights at a time when we would in all likelihood be able to obtain needed capital through a new offering of our securities on terms more favorable than those provided by the outstanding securities.

The selling stockholders may sell their shares on the Nasdaq SmallCap Market, in the over-the-counter market or through any other facility on which the shares are traded, or in private transactions. These sales may be at market prices or at negotiated prices. The selling stockholders may use the following methods when selling shares:

ordinary brokerage transactions and transactions in which the broker or dealer solicits purchasers;

block trades in which the broker or dealer attempts to sell the shares as agent, but may position and resell a portion of the block as principal to facilitate the transaction;

purchases by a broker dealer as principal and resale by the broker or dealer for its account in connection with this prospectus;

privately negotiated transactions;

any combination of these methods of sale; or any other legal method.

The selling stockholders may also pledge their shares, enter into put or call options or enter into other transactions with broker-dealers or others which require delivery to those persons of shares covered by this prospectus.

Brokers, dealers or other agents participating in the distribution of the shares of Class A common stock may receive compensation in the form of discounts or commissions from the selling stockholders, as well as the purchaser if they act as agent for the purchaser. The discount or commission in a particular transaction could be more than the customary amount. We know of no existing arrangements between any selling stockholder and any underwriter, broker, dealer or agent relating to the sale or distribution of the shares.

The selling stockholders and any brokers or dealers that participate in the sale of the shares may be deemed to be underwriters within the meaning of the Securities Act. Any discounts, commissions or other compensation received by these persons and any profit on the resale of the shares by them as principals might be deemed to be underwriters compensation. The selling stockholders may agree to indemnify any broker, dealer or agent that participates in the sale of the shares against various liabilities, including liabilities under the Securities Act.

At the time a particular offer of shares is made, to the extent required we will file a supplement to this prospectus which identifies the number of shares being offered, the name of the selling stockholders, the name of any participating broker or dealer, the amount of discounts and commissions, and any other material information.

The selling stockholders and any other person participating in a distribution will be subject to the applicable provisions of the Exchange Act and its rules and regulations. For example, the anti-manipulative provisions of Regulation M may limit the ability of the selling stockholders or others to engage in stabilizing and other market making activities.

The selling stockholders may also sell their shares in accordance with Rule 144 under the Securities Act, rather than in connection with this prospectus, so long as they meet the criteria and conform to the requirements of the rule.

We will not receive any of the proceeds from the sale of the shares by the selling stockholders. We will pay the registration and other offering expenses related to this offering, but the selling stockholders will pay all underwriting discounts and brokerage commissions incurred in connection with the offering.

Disclosure of Commission Position on Indemnification for Securities Act Liabilities

Section 145 of the Delaware General Corporation Law permits us to indemnify directors, officers, employees or agents against judgments, fines, amounts paid in settlement, and reasonable costs, expenses and counsel fees paid or incurred in connection with any proceeding, other than an action by or in the right of us, to which such director, officer or employee or his legal representative may be a party, provided such director, officer or employee shall have acted in good faith and shall have reasonably believed (a) in the case of a civil proceeding, that his conduct was in or not opposed to our best interests, or (b) in the case of a criminal proceeding, that he had no reasonable cause to believe his conduct was unlawful. In connection with an action by or in the right of us against a director, officer, employee or agent, we have the power to indemnify such director, officer, employee or agent for reasonable expenses incurred in connection with such suit (a) if such person acted in good faith and in a manner not opposed to our best interest, and (b) if found liable to us, only if ordered by a court of law. Section 145 provides that such section is not exclusive of any other indemnification rights granted by us to directors, officers, employees or agents.

Our Certificate of Incorporation provides for mandatory indemnification of directors, officers and employees to the fullest extent permitted by Section 145, unless we prove that the person seeking indemnification did not meet the standard set forth above. Our Certificate permits us to indemnify agents to the extent authorized from time to time by our Board of Directors. The right to indemnification is a contract right and includes the right to be paid by us the expenses incurred in defending any such proceeding in advance of its final disposition, provided that the indemnitee undertakes to repay all amounts so advanced if it is ultimately determined that such indemnitee is not entitled to be indemnified for such expenses.

Our Certificate of Incorporation also contains a provision eliminating the liability of a director to us or our stockholders for monetary damages for breach of fiduciary duty as a director, other than liability for (a) breach of the director's duty of loyalty to us or our stockholders, (b) acts or omissions not in good faith or which involve intentional misconduct or a knowing violation of law, (c) unlawful payment of a dividend or unlawful stock purchase or redemption, or (d) any transaction from which the director derived an improper personal benefit.

We also maintain directors and officers liability insurance for the benefit of our directors and officers.

Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act of 1933 may be permitted to directors, officers or persons controlling the registrant pursuant to the foregoing provisions, we have been informed that in the opinion of the Securities and Exchange Commission such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Act and is therefore unenforceable.

Item 6. Indemnification of Directors and Officers.

Section 145 of the Delaware General Corporation Law permits the Registrant to indemnify directors, officers, employees or agents against judgments, fines, amounts paid in settlement, and reasonable costs, expenses and counsel fees paid or incurred in connection with any proceeding, other than an action by or in the right of the Registrant, to which such director, officer or employee or his legal representative may be a party, provided such director, officer or employee shall have acted in good faith and shall have reasonably believed (a) in the case of a civil proceeding, that his conduct was in or not opposed to the best interests of the Registrant, or (b) in the case of a criminal proceeding, that he had no reasonable cause to believe his conduct was unlawful. In connection with an action by or in the right of the Registrant against a director, officer, employee or agent, the Registrant has the power to indemnify such director, officer, employee or agent for reasonable expenses incurred in connection with such suit (a) if such person acted in good faith and in a manner not opposed to the best interest of the Registrant, and (b) if found liable to the Registrant, only if ordered by a court of law. Section 145 provides that such section is not exclusive of any other indemnification rights granted by the Registrant to directors, officers, employees or agents.

The Certificate of Incorporation of the Registrant provides for mandatory indemnification of directors, officers and employees to the fullest extent permitted by Section 145, unless the Registrant proves that the person seeking indemnification did not meet the standard set forth above. The Certificate permits the Registrant to indemnify agents to the extent authorized from time to time by the Board of Directors. The right to indemnification is a contract right and includes the right to be paid by the Registrant the expenses incurred in defending any such proceeding in advance of its final disposition, provided that the indemnitee undertakes to repay all amounts so advanced if it is ultimately determined that such indemnitee is not entitled to be indemnified for such expenses.

The Certificate of Incorporation of the Registrant also contains a provision eliminating the liability of a director to the Registrant or its stockholders for monetary damages for breach of fiduciary duty as a director, other than liability for (a) breach of the director's duty of loyalty to the corporation or its stockholders, (b) acts or omissions not in good faith or which involve intentional misconduct or a knowing violation of law, (c) unlawful payment of a dividend or unlawful stock purchase or redemption, or (d) any transaction from which the director derived an improper personal benefit.

We also maintain directors and officers liability insurance for the benefit of our directors and officers.

Item 7. Exemption from Registration Claimed.

All of the restricted securities issued by us to the selling stockholders who are reoffering and reselling such restricted securities pursuant to this Registration Statement were issued in reliance upon the exemption from registration under Section 4(2) of the Securities Act relating to sales by an issuer not involving any public offering. We believe, due to the nature of the relationship of these persons to us and the isolated nature of the transactions, that each issuance and sale of the shares of Class A common stock underlying options held by such persons was exempt from registration under the Securities Act as a private placement pursuant to Section 4(2) of that Act.

- (ii) To reflect in the prospectus any facts or events arising after the effective date of the Registration statement (or the most recent post-effective amendment thereof) which, individually or in the aggregate, represent a fundamental change in the information set forth in the registration statement; previously disclosed in the registration statement or any material change to such information in the registration statement. Provided, however, that paragraphs (1)(i) and (1)(ii) do not apply if the information required to be included in a post-effective amendment by those paragraphs is contained in periodic reports filed by the Registrant pursuant to Section 13 or Section 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 that are incorporated by reference in the registration statement.

(2) That, for the purpose of determining any liability under the Securities Act, each such post-effective amendment shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.

(3) To remove from registration by means of a post-effective amendment any of the securities being registered which remain unsold at the termination of the offering.

(b) For purposes of determining any liability under the Securities Act, each filing of the Registrant's annual report pursuant to Section 13(a) or Section 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 that is incorporated by reference in the registration statement shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.

(c) Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act may be permitted to directors, officers and controlling persons of the Registrant pursuant to the foregoing provisions, or otherwise, the Registrant has been advised that in the opinion of the Securities and Exchange Commission such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act and is, therefore, unenforceable. In the event that a claim for indemnification against such liabilities (other than the payment by the Registrant of expenses incurred or paid by a director, officer or controlling person in the successful defense of any action, suit or proceeding) is asserted by such director, officer or controlling person in connection with the securities being registered, the Registrant will, unless in the opinion of its counsel the matter has been settled by controlling precedent, submit to a court of appropriate jurisdiction the question whether such indemnification by it is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act and will be governed by the final adjudication of such issue.
