1. Organization and Business

Physicians Insurance Company of Wisconsin, Inc. (the Company) was incorporated in 1986 pursuant to a resolution passed in 1986 by the House of Delegates of the Wisconsin Medical Society (the WMS) to organize an insurance company to provide medical malpractice liability (MPL) insurance to its members.

Substantially all of the 2005 and 2004 earned premium of the Company relates to MPL insurance which is provided primarily using claims-made policies. These policies are designed to protect the policyholder against liability for acts or omissions in the furnishing of professional medical services by the insured or anyone acting under the professional direction, control or supervision of the insured, and provide insurance only with respect to incidents of alleged liability that occur after a retroactive date (usually the date on which the policy first became effective) and that are reported during the term of the policy. The Company is licensed in 13 states. Approximately 53% and 50% of the Company's 2005 and 2004 direct written premiums, respectively, were written in the State of Wisconsin and 20% and 25% of the Company's 2005 and 2004 direct written premiums, respectively, were written in the State of Iowa.

The Company has one wholly-owned subsidiary, Professional Service Network, Inc. (PSN). PSN owns 100% of Century American Insurance Company (CAIC), PSA of Wisconsin, Inc. (PSA) and PMC of Wisconsin, Inc. (PMC). Century American Casualty Company (CACC) was owned 100% by PSN until October 1, 2004 upon which date it was sold to an outside party. CACC was engaged in the business of medical malpractice and surety insurance. PMC is in the business of providing third party claims administration services. CAIC and PSA are largely inactive. All affiliates other than CAIC are non-admitted. On August 31, 2005, Professional Service Network, Inc. entered into a stock purchase agreement for the sale of the CAIC. On May 11, 2006, the Commissioner of the Tennessee Department of Insurance approved the transaction. It is anticipated the transaction will close before the end of May.

2. Significant Accounting Policies

The following is a description of the significant accounting policies followed in the preparation of the accompanying statutory basis financial statements.

Basis of Presentation

The accompanying financial statements have been prepared in conformity with accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the Office of the Commissioner of Insurance of the State of Wisconsin (the Commissioner). Prescribed statutory accounting practices include the NAIC's Accounting Practices and Procedures Manual version effective March of 2005, as well as those practices that are incorporated directly or by reference in state laws, regulations and general administrative rules applicable to all insurance enterprises domiciled in a particular state. In addition, the Commissioner has the right to permit other specific practices that may deviate from prescribed practices. The Company does not employ any material permitted statutory accounting practices in the preparation of its statutory financial statements.

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with statutory accounting practices requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the dates of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting periods. Actual results could differ from these estimates.

Notes to Unaudited Financial Statements
December 31, 2005 and 2004

Statutory accounting practices differ in some respects from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAP). The more significant differences are:

Bonds, short-term investments and unaffiliated common stock investments are carried at values prescribed by the NAIC, primarily amortized cost for bonds and short-term investments and market values as determined by the NAIC for common stocks, rather than fair value, with unrealized gains (losses) recognized directly in stockholders' capital and surplus (net of deferred income taxes).

Under statutory accounting practices, certain assets, designated as non-admitted assets, are charged directly against statutory surplus. Such assets are reflected in GAAP financial statements at net realizable value.

Deferred federal income tax assets provided for temporary differences between the tax and financial reporting bases of assets and liabilities are generally limited to those temporary differences which reverse the following year and offset deferred tax liabilities. Under statutory accounting, the changes in deferred tax assets and liabilities are provided for as changes in stockholders' capital and surplus rather than income.

Policy acquisition costs are charged against operations as incurred rather than deferred and amortized over the policy term.

Under statutory accounting practices, a liability is recorded for a portion of the total net amount recoverable from a reinsurer when the reinsurer fails to pay amounts due within 90 days of the billing date. The liability is charged directly against surplus. Under GAAP, the amount due from the reinsurer would be valued at net realizable value.

Wholly-owned subsidiaries are not consolidated, but are reflected as investments with equity in earnings (losses) of subsidiaries credited (charged) directly to stockholders' surplus.

Under GAAP, gains on retroactive reinsurance contracts are generally deferred and recognized as related claims are settled.

Surplus notes are considered surplus, not debt and classified as a liability.

Investments

Investments in investment grade long-term bonds not backed by other loans and investment grade short-term fixed income investments are reported at amortized cost using the scientific method. Investment grade loan-backed bonds and structured securities are reported at amortized cost using the scientific method including anticipated prepayments at the date of purchase. The Company obtains prepayment assumptions for loan-backed bonds and structured securities from broker-dealer surveys or utilizes internal estimates. These assumptions are consistent with the current interest rate and economic environment. The prospective adjustment method is used to value all securities.

Non-investment grade long-term bonds and non-investment grade short-term fixed income investments are reported at the lower of cost or market value. Common stocks of non-affiliated entities are reported at quotations prescribed by the NAIC, which generally approximate market value.

Table of Contents

Physicians Insurance Company of Wisconsin, Inc.
Notes to Unaudited Financial Statements
December 31, 2005 and 2004

Common stocks of unconsolidated, wholly-owned subsidiaries are stated at cost, adjusted for equity in earnings or losses since the dates of acquisition and valuation adjustments necessary to comply with NAIC rules. The unrealized appreciation or depreciation in the common stocks of unconsolidated, wholly-owned subsidiaries, including amounts attributable to their results from operations, is credited or charged to stockholders' capital and surplus.

The Company completes a quarterly review of invested assets for evidence of other than temporary impairments. A cost basis adjustment and realized loss will be taken on invested assets whose value decline is deemed to be other than temporary. Additionally, for investments written down, income accruals will be stopped absent evidence that payment is likely and an assessment of the collectability of previously accrued income made. Factors used in determining investments whose value decline may be considered other than temporary include the following:

Investments with a market value less than 50% of amortized cost for 6 continuous months

Investments with a market value decline of $100,000 or greater

For fixed income, criteria including default on interest payments greater than 90 days, the company filing for bankruptcy and default on principal payments

In 2005 and 2004, respectively, a charge of $3.6 million and $640,000 was recognized as an other than temporary asset impairment.

Real estate occupied by the company is stated at cost, less accumulated depreciation and any encumbrances. Depreciation is calculated on a straight-line basis over the estimated useful lives, which are 30 years for the office building and 15 years for site improvements. Depreciation expense on real estate was $116,687 for 2005 and 2004.

Investment income is recorded when earned. Investment purchases and sales are recorded on the trade date. Unrealized gains and losses resulting from changes in market value of investments carried at market are recorded directly to stockholders' capital and surplus, net of deferred income taxes. Realized investment gains and losses are determined on the specific identification basis.

The Company holds a significant portion of its investment portfolio in mortgage-backed securities (See Note 3). These securities are subject to prepayments which are driven by many variables, most significantly by changes in market interest rates. As a result, these securities may have different actual maturities and investment yields than were expected at the time of purchase. While the Company attempts to mitigate this risk by selecting mortgage-backed securities with less volatile cash flows, it cannot completely eliminate prepayment and extension risk associated with these securities.

Losses and Loss Adjustment Expenses

The liability for losses and loss adjustment expenses is determined on the basis of an evaluation of individual claims and on actuarially determined estimates of future losses and loss adjustment expenses using assumptions based upon the historical industry loss experience for the Company's lines of insurance and the Company's actual experience. The uncertainty inherent in estimating the liability for losses and loss adjustment expenses is particularly acute for lines of business for which the paid losses develop over an extended period, such as MPL insurance.

This uncertainty exists because of the possibility of changes in the factors affecting the estimates such as changes in the legal environment and/or facts and circumstances surrounding existing claims. As a result, it is possible that the estimate for losses and loss adjustment expenses may vary from amounts provided in the financial statements in the near future. The assumptions for making such estimates and establishing the liability are continually reviewed and updated, and any resulting adjustments are reflected in current operating results.

On July 14th, 2005, the Wisconsin Supreme Court struck down the state's caps on non-economic damages in medical malpractice cases. The decision of a majority of the Wisconsin Supreme Court Justices is that the $350,000 cap on non-economic damages in medical liability cases violates equal protection because there is no rational basis between the goals of the legislation and the different treatment of certain injured plaintiffs under the statute. Because the majority determined that a rational basis for the statute does not exist, the statute is unconstitutional and the cap on non-economic damages in medical liability cases is now removed. The full impact of this decision is yet to be determined. We believe the impact will be primarily increased frequency and associated higher defense cost because of higher value of awards for plaintiffs and attorneys. The Company filed a base rate increase of 5 percent as a preemptive measure. The Wisconsin Injured Patients and Families Compensation Fund will be significantly impacted by the loss of the caps, since they are responsible for losses in excess of the $1 million primary coverage.

On March 22, 2006, the cap on non-economic damages was reinstated for medical liability cases. The bill limits certain jury awards, which include pain and suffering damages, to $750,000. The timing of the application of the aforementioned loss of the cap and the reinstated, higher cap to individual claims is yet to be determined.

Reinsurance recoveries are recorded as a reduction of losses and loss adjustment expenses in accordance with contract terms.

Recognition of Premium Revenue

Premiums are recorded as written on the policy effective date and are earned on a daily pro rata basis over the term of the policy. Premiums collected on policies that are not effective and that have not been processed are recorded as a suspense premium liability.

The Company recognizes the liability for free coverage upon the death, disability or retirement (DDR) of the policyholder and includes the liability in unearned premiums. The premiums associated with reporting endorsements issued under this provision are earned when the endorsement is issued and the additional exposure to future reported claims is considered in loss reserves at that time. The policy reserve for DDR as of December 31, 2005 and 2004, was $6,270,660 and $6,311,250, respectively. In determining this reserve, the Company uses a model developed by its outside actuaries that incorporates expected loss trends, anticipated interest rates and the Company's nonrenewal rates as its major actuarial considerations. Also implicit in the model are assumptions about the demographics of the Company's book of business, the eligibility requirements for issuance of the DDR benefit, and mortality and morbidity assumptions. Management reviews the adequacy and reasonableness of the DDR policy reserve annually based on the above assumptions.

Acquisition Costs

The costs of acquiring business, such as commissions and other underwriting expenses, are expensed as incurred.

Premium Deficiency Reserve

Anticipated investment income is not utilized as a factor in the premium deficiency calculation.

Table of Contents

Physicians Insurance Company of Wisconsin, Inc.
Notes to Unaudited Financial Statements
December 31, 2005 and 2004

Data Processing Equipment

Data processing equipment is recorded at cost, less depreciation provided on the straight-line basis over an estimated useful life of 3 years. Depreciation expense on data processing equipment was $110,396 and $116,388 for the years ended December 31, 2005 and 2004, respectively.

Furniture and Equipment

Furniture and equipment is recorded at cost, less depreciation provided on the straight-line basis over an estimated useful life from 5 to 10 years. Depreciation expense on furniture and equipment was $42,520 and $74,264 for the years ended December 31, 2005 and 2004, respectively.

Income Taxes

The provision for federal income taxes is based on currently taxable income and includes amounts incurred or received during the current year relating to prior periods. Deferred income taxes are identified and measured using a balance sheet approach and are computed using enacted federal income tax rates. Changes in deferred tax assets (DTA) and liabilities (DTL) are recognized as a separate component of changes in stockholders' capital and surplus. Gross DTAs are limited to the sum of 1) federal income taxes paid in prior years and 2) the lesser of gross DTAs expected to be realized within one year or ten percent of statutory capital and surplus net of DTLs and positive goodwill. Gross DTAs above the limitation are nonadmitted, with the change reflected in surplus.

The Company files a consolidated federal income tax return with PSN, PSA, CAIC, PMC and CACC (until October 1, 2004 upon which date it was sold). The method of allocation between the companies is subject to a written agreement which has been approved by the Board of Directors. Current allocation is based upon separate return calculations with current credit for net operating losses or other items utilized in the consolidated return. Intercompany balances are settled quarterly.

Real Estate Income

Investment income includes rental income of $451,580 and $462,240 in 2005 and 2004, respectively, for occupancy by the Company of its own building. A similar charge is included in loss adjustment expenses and other underwriting expenses for 2005 and 2004.

Non-admitted Assets

Certain assets with an aggregate book value of $13,367,152 and $7,794,370 at December 31, 2005 and 2004, respectively, are considered non-admitted assets for statutory purposes. The majority of these non-admitted assets are software and deferred income taxes. Such items are excluded from the balance sheets and any changes in net book value of such assets are charged or credited directly to stockholders' capital and surplus.

Disclosures About Fair Values of Financial Instruments

Accounting standards require disclosure of fair value information about financial instruments, whether or not recognized in the balance sheets, for which it is practicable to estimate those values. The accounting standards define fair value of a financial instrument as the amount at which that instrument could be exchanged in a current transaction between willing parties, other than in a forced or liquidated sale.

Other than invested assets and real estate, the remaining financial instruments have a carrying amount that approximates fair value. See Note 3 for the fair value of invested assets.

December 31, 2005 and 2004

On December 8, 2005, the Rights Agreement was amended to include ProAssurance as an exempt person and to exclude the execution of the merger agreement, the public announcement thereof and the consummation of the transactions contemplated thereby from various definitions so that no rights under the Rights Agreement would be issued as a result of the merger agreement and the merger. The Rights Agreement was further amended so that the Rights Agreement and rights under the Rights Agreement terminate in all respects immediately prior to the effective time of the merger. The merger agreement includes as a condition to ProAssurance's obligation to effect the merger that no holder of any rights under the Rights Agreement shall be entitled to exercise such rights as a result of the execution of the merger agreement, the public announcement of the merger or the consummation of the merger. If rights should become issuable under the Rights Agreement prior to the effective time of the merger for any reason and ProAssurance elects to proceed with the merger, the merger agreement further provides that the exchange ratio shall be proportionately adjusted to reflect the economic substance of the event in a manner that is mutually acceptable to ProAssurance and PIC Wisconsin.
